

Salthouse and Llewellyn Win 2XU Australian ITU Junior Series Point Score

2011 2XU Australian ITU Junior Triathlon Series

Brisbane triathlete Ellie Salthouse and Newcastle's Scott Llewellyn have won the 2011 2XU Australian ITU Junior Series Point Score. All athletes have done an outstanding job throughout the national series and have faced the best and worst of Mother Nature. The series kicked off with the 2XU Super Sprint Race Weekend in December where the event was hammered by electrical storms with lightening, wind and rain. This followed with Devonport Triathlon where most of Northern Tasmania, Victoria and Southern NSW were hot with massive floods. The water quality and debris/flooding in the Mersey River turned the Devonport race into a duathlon. Then onto Geelong for the 2011 Australian ITU Junior Championships in February where gale force winds forced the postponement of all events to the Sunday. To top the series off all athletes were facing a tsunami warning on the morning of the ITU Oceania Championships in Wellington, New Zealand – What a Year! The series winners are determined by a point score based on the athletes best three results out of the four national series events for ITU Junior Men and after consideration by the TA Board the ITU Junior Women's race in Devonport was declared a non-event therefore the best two result from three races counted towards the series winner in the junior women.

In the ITU Junior Men's Series, Scott Llewellyn dominated the series winning the first three races to take an unbeatable lead and has wrapped up the point score prior to the final race. Jack Hickey (NSW) hung tough in Wellington to grab enough points to finish second overall while Marcel Walkington (VIC) on 20points and the consistent Brayden Tucker (QLD) also on 20 points tied for 3rd place. In fifth place with 19 points was Kenji Nener (WA) followed by Dylan Evans (TAS) on 17 points then Matt Brown (QLD), Braden Ludlow (NSW), James Chronis (VIC) and Shane Farrant (ACT) round out the top ten.
